First Aid—What is First Aid?

Emergency First Aid is the first response to a life threatening medical emergency, either illness or injury. Non-emergency First Aid is the treatment of minor medical needs including administering prescribed medicines as directed, dealing with cuts / abrasions / minor bleeds and sickness.

At Poltair School First Aid trained staff are available to deal with Emergency and non-emergency First Aid when required. Emergency First Aid is our priority in all situations. The First Aid office is located in our Smith Block and is open to pupils and staff during lesson times. At other times First Aid is available in our Student Services building. Staff and pupils are made aware of First Aid procedures in school.

Coughs/colds and minor cold/flu like symptoms are not deemed emergency first aid situations (unless relevant supplementary information is available to us) so where necessary we do ask pupils to remain in lesson to be monitored by teaching staff, including ensuring that they have had a drink of water, been to the toilet or had something to eat. If symptoms persist and are making it difficult for the pupil to remain in school then a parent can be contacted by a First Aider. We ask pupils not to contact home by text/telephone call if feeling unwell but to speak to their teacher in the first instance.

Administering of Medicines

Please note that the school First Aiders will only administer prescribed medicines, including paracetamol, that have been provided by parents and includes parental consent to administer medicines. We do not accept paracetamol or other medicines if not prescribed by a medical professional. Medicines are retained in a locked cabinet in the First Aid room and managed by the First Aid Co-ordinator.

The project is funded by the European Union through the European Social Fund
