Specialist Unit

Consultation

Building confidence and capacity: what this consultation is about

Dear parents and carers,

I'm delighted to offer you this consultation about the creation of a specialist unit for learners with complex Speech, Language and Communication Needs (SLCN) and/or autism at Poltair School.

Delighted, because the SEND system too often ignores the voices of those who experience it. So, this is a fantastic opportunity to hear from you.

Delighted, because it's only a few weeks since the government announced its reform plans for special educational needs provision, and already we are creating 73 new and much-needed specialist places across our trust.

And delighted because this represents a huge vote of confidence in CELT from the council – in our mission, our values and our ability to deliver.

This isn't just about creating new spaces for some children. It will allow us to develop the expertise and unlock the resources to make every classroom in each of our schools more inclusive – for the benefit of all.

The staff development we deliver to through our Centre of Excellence is already sector-leading. Our Learning Chronicles, Adaptive Teaching Toolkit and Individual Education Plans are already raising our standards of inclusion.

Now, with new Area Resource Bases and a Specialist Unit at CELT schools across St Austell and Newquay, we have a chance to ensure:

- every CELT teacher is a teacher of SEND,
- every learner who can safely be taught in a mainstream setting has the support to thrive,
- and every learner who needs more can access the right placement for them near to home.

A little over a year into my role as CELT's CEO, I couldn't be prouder of what we've delivered and I'm truly excited about the inclusive journey we're on.

I look forward to hearing your thoughts on this proposal, and I'll be in touch again in 3 weeks when we've gathered all your views.

With kindest regards,

Dan Morrow

Poltair School Specialist Unit

Introduction

Cornwall Education Learning Trust is consulting on proposed changes to Poltair School. This document describes what is being proposed and why.

What changes are being proposed?

The Specialist Unit at Poltair School will be a new provision with a maximum number of 20 places for learners between the ages of 11 and 16 with Complex Speech, Language and Communication Needs (SLCN) and/or autism.

- Year 7 – 4 places
- Year 8 – 4 places
- Year 9 – 4 places
- Year 10 – 4 places
- Year 11 – 4 places

As part of our role within the wider SEND system, the specialist unit will fulfil three primary functions:

1. To provide continuity of education for learners with complex SLCN and/or autism from key stage 3-4.
2. To address increasing demand for specialist places locally and strengthen family and community engagement.
3. To act as a hub of expertise for SLCN and autism across the trust, the region and nationally.

Why do we want to do this?

Poltair School is a mainstream school, rated 'Good' by Ofsted, with a strong commitment to inclusion and the capacity to expand its provision.

Establishing a specialist unit would enable the school to meet the needs of learners who require a higher level of specialist support than can typically be provided within a mainstream classroom. The unit would offer a highly structured environment, specialist teaching, and tailored interventions designed to support learners' individual needs. While there would be opportunities for appropriate and carefully supported integration with mainstream provision, this would be limited and based on each learner's readiness and best interests.

This development would strengthen the school's inclusive ethos by ensuring a broader continuum of provision, respond to increasing local demand for specialist places, reduce the need for out-of-area placements, and support positive academic, social, and emotional outcomes for learners. It would also make effective use of the school's existing expertise and facilities while enhancing its capacity to deliver specialist support.

Why has this school been chosen/identified?

Poltair School is an inclusive school who provides additional support for learners. However, the school does not currently have a formalised Specialist Unit.

In collaboration with Cornwall Council, it is proposed that the school establishes this provision to meet increasing local demand. This development will support learners with EHCPs for SLCN and/or autism while contributing to both the Council's and the Trust's strategic priorities.

What is the evidence of demand?

There is a significant and growing need for specialist school places in Cornwall for learners with EHCPs, both in special schools and in resource bases within mainstream settings.

This proposal aligns with the Local Authority's sufficiency strategy and SEND Strategic Plan, which place inclusion at the centre of future provision. By increasing specialist support within mainstream schools, more learners can access education closer to home and within their local community.

This targeted investment is based on detailed analysis of local need and is focused on areas where demand is highest. As part of the Mid Cornwall sufficiency pilot, this development will also support clearer pathways between different types of provision, including opportunities for learners to transition into mainstream settings where appropriate.

When will these changes happen?

Following this consultation period, if the proposal is approved by the decision maker, the changes will be implemented from September 2026 with:

- 10 places (Year 7 - 9) to meet immediate local need
- September 2027 – 15 places (Year 7-10)
- September 2028 – 20 places (Year 7-11)

In addition, through CELT's broader development work, the specialist unit will also have access to Speech and Language Therapists and Educational Psychologists.

Will there be any effect on other schools, academies and educational institutions within the area?

There should be no negative effects on other special or mainstream schools, as the specialist unit will offer specialist provision for which there is a need, particularly in this locality. There is currently a shortage of places and no indication that other schools offering this type of provision will be negatively affected. Any impact on other schools should be positive as this proposal creates places for learners with complex SLCN and autism and so releases places at other schools to meet the needs of other learners.

How will the proposal increase educational standards and parental choice?

Cornwall Council is keen to ensure that future places are provided in the areas that they are needed, helping learners to attend a school nearer to home and as part of their local community. The proposed 20 place specialist unit will increase the number of places for learners requiring complex SLCN and/or autism provision and provide greater choice for parents and carers.

How will this affect learners at the school?

Current learners may notice the small increase to the total number of learners at Poltair School. This change would not affect the admission arrangements, admission number or process for mainstream learners. The learners in the universal provision, who may need additional support with learning will further benefit from increased specialised support onsite.

To be considered for a place in a resource base, the learner must have an Education Health Care Plan (EHCP) with their primary area of need identified as SLCN or autism requiring a specialist placement.

The local authority SEN statutory team will allocate places in the base in consultation with CELT.

How will this affect staff?

Generally, staff will be unaffected and will experience more opportunities for professional development.

Will this effect travel and transport?

The impact on transport and travel will be minimal. The school will continue to update their travel plan, as and when required. The Local Education Authority transport arrangements for learners with special needs will apply.

Will there be changes to the school building?

Existing space in the school has been identified that could be used for this specialist unit. Some remodeling and repurposing of existing buildings will be required.

What are the project costs for this proposal and how is it funded?

Funding for the specialist unit will be sought from Cornwall Council's High Needs Capital Grant. They will ensure that the project will deliver value for money. The ongoing maintenance of the specialist unit will be the responsibility of the school and funded via the school's delegated budget. Poltair will receive regular funding for resourcing the specialist provision.

Will this definitely happen?

There is a statutory process we must follow to make these sorts of changes to schools. We have had support from the Local Authority. Following this statutory consultation, the proposal will be shared with the Department for Education; they are the decision maker for this type of proposal.

It is only after a decision that we will be able to say with certainty whether or not the proposal will be implemented. The decision will be published on our school website. We are anticipating this being June 2026.

What will happen if this proposal is rejected?

The school will continue to offer additional support to its learners. This would also mean that the Council would need to identify alternative/additional places for learners that have an EHCP who require a specialist unit.

What is the curriculum offer?

Teaching within the specialist unit will draw on evidence-based frameworks including TEACCH, Intensive Interaction and sensory regulation approaches. The unit will provide highly specialised provision through a bespoke curriculum tailored to each learner's individual needs, with a strong emphasis on communication, independence, and emotional regulation. Learning will be personalised and adaptive, supported by integrated speech and language therapy-informed practice and a structured, sensory-aware environment.

A key focus of the provision will be preparation for adulthood, developing learners' life skills, resilience, and independence to support successful transitions beyond school. Provision will be designed to meet learners at their point of need, ensuring they can make meaningful progress academically, socially, and emotionally.
